Times Like These

By Doug Dingley

With all of the Coronavirus separation and social distancing currently occurring, many of you may think that stressing evangelism in "times like these" is peculiar, if not perhaps even pointless. But... might I humbly suggest that it was exactly 'times like these' – times when the Lord's church was scattered and life was even more difficult for His disciples than it is for us today – that God used to get His people to go spread the word like He'd told them to do?

The resurrected Christ had informed His Apostles that they would be His witnesses throughout all the known world (Lk. 24:46-48; Acts 1:1-8). However, they apparently had other ideas and remained in Jerusalem. It took a drastic life and death situation – a persecution which scattered the church, to finally get both the members, as well as the Apostles, to go everywhere preaching the words He'd told them to do (See Acts 8; and 11:19-26). Some may additionally wonder how we can possibly effectively evangelize while practicing social distancing and/or observing shelter in place orders. But the fact is that the very same technology that allows so many of us to learn from home, work from home, and worship from home, can also be used to just as effectively evangelize from home, by utilizing social media, church websites, and online Bible studies and the like. Today, let's consider a few reasons why right now – exactly in 'times like these' – that we just might have the best chance we've ever had, of reaching people with the glorious gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ!

1 – People are the most reachable when they feel the most vulnerable; when they feel the most fearful, hopeless, helpless and powerless; when they are forced to really stop and consider the incredible swiftness and fragility of their own human life.

2 – Most people have far more free time than they've had in a long time. With no school, sporting, or other such social events occurring; with movie theaters, shopping malls, and other recreational and dining facilities closed to the public; and with so many people seeking to escape their current isolation and boredom through internet learning and virtual reality activities, what better time to engage someone in an on-line discussion or Bible study about the life and hope that you have in Jesus?

3 – Thirdly and lastly, folks shouldn't be so prone to turning down your invitation to have them study or worship with you because they might be intimidated at the idea of walking into a new church building full of total strangers; they can watch worship and attend Bible studies with you online – both of you at the same time, but only from the comfort of your own homes. Neither will they be able to turn down your invitation due to attending "their church" or because they are "too busy" at that time, because most of these services, once conducted and posted online, can be watched anytime, 24/7.

The fact is, that we currently have the personal capability to reach far beyond our homes, church building walls, and local communities with the gospel message. It has never been easier – nor might we have ever had a greater chance of success – to effectively evangelize our friends, and neighbors, and even complete and total strangers, than we do right now during our current crisis, "in times like these."

We know that God causes all things (and that includes the worst of things ... like the Coronavirus) – to work together for good, according to Romans 8:28. Perhaps the good to come out of this is the doors He has opened for the more effective spread of the gospel (1 Cor. 16:9; Col. 4:2-6). If so, then it is you and I who must get going (Ex. 14:15). For, "who knows whether you have come to the kingdom for [just] such a time as this?" (Est. 4:14).

KEEP FOCUSED

Many things are happening. It is a time in which, though our spirits may be low, we need to recharge and begin to rebound. Please keep the church family in your prayers. Take every precaution you can to be well. Pray for those who are ill; Pray for our land; Pray for our President; and, above all, pray for people to awaken to the need of God in their lives.

These days are filled with anxious moments. We are hearing of awful acts being carried out and of the disregard for human life. Satan is doing all he can to get us to give up and join his band of haters. We will not allow that to happen! We will remain strong and pray for the days of peace to return.

In my Wednesday studies, we are looking at the Parables of our Lord. They are full and exciting for us to learn and grow thereby. On Sundays, we are looking back at the early churches of Christ and seeing what made them strong, even in the midst of persecution.

I saw recently that a church was attacked. The minister was adamant that none of this rioting would ever deter them from the house of worship. I was encouraged to see that. In the first churches, some were killed, others had their homes burned down, and others, lost everything they had, but they did not abandon the faith!

Whatever happens just remember this world is not our home, we are just passing through. We are only here for a short period of time--eternity lays before us. How we live here will determine where we will live in eternity.

I will always love the words of Job: 'Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him'-Job 13:15. Job had been accused by his own friends of gross sin; his wife even told him: 'Curse God and die'. Then came his famous words: "I will always trust Him." That is the faith we need. Let us be strong. Let us pray. Let us love God. Let us love one another.

I was encouraged by the announcement made by brother Lee Fisher, one of our elders, last Sunday. He announced our up-coming Personal Evangelism Seminar, scheduled for September 8th-10th. These lessons, presented by House to House/Heart to Heart, will give us an opportunity to learn more evangelistic efforts so we may reach our neighbors with the message of Christ. I hope you will want to attend and be encouraged to reach out to others with the gospel of love. Be sure to sign up in the south hallway for this event as booklets need to be ordered for it.

“The Church at Pergamum”
Revelation 2:12-16

12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;

13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitanes, which thing I hate.

16 Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.
