The Role of Helpers in Evangelism

In our efforts to lead people to Jesus Christ, whether it is family members, coworkers, friends or neighbors, we may feel as if we are all alone in our efforts. Such ought not to be the case! I would like for us to think about the role that others utilize in evangelism.

For example, consider the statement that Paul made: "I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase" (1 Corinthians 3:6). Many times when we use this passage, we show the impact that God has in our evangelism (and rightly so). Yet, let us notice another powerful and necessary lesson—Paul recognized the impact of Apollos in the efforts to evangelize the Corinthians. He knew that he would not be able to do it alone. In fact, he was rarely alone—he was with Barnabas on his first missionary journey, and he selected Silas to accompany him on his second trip. He "recruited" such men as Luke, Timothy, Titus, Epaphroditus, Sopater of Berea, Aristarchus, Secundus, Gaius of Derbe, Tychicus, Trophimus, Aquila and Priscilla to help him. In his epistles, he would often list others as "fellow laborers," "fellow servants" or "fellow workers." Of all of the greatest evangelists in the known church, he would be the first to admit the role of others who assist in evangelistic efforts.

Consider another example, beginning in John 4. When Jesus traveled from Judea to Galilee, he needed to go through Samaria (rather than the usual path of circumventing the disliked Samaritans), and there he encountered a particular woman. Through his conversation with her and the recognition of the fact that the fields "are white already to harvest" (cf. John 4:35), "many of the Samaritans of that city believed on him for the saying of the woman...and many more believed because of his own word" (John 4:39-41). In all, he stayed there and had a tremendous influence on them for two days. Thus, it should be no wonder that months later, when a disciple of the church named Philip went to Samaria and "preached Christ unto them" (Acts 8:5), they responded with obedience by baptism (Acts 8:5-12). I am convinced that while Philip benefited from reaping the harvest of these Samaritan souls, Jesus had already planted the seed beforehand. Thus, we see the role that others play, even if time passes that might tempt us to believe that all hope is lost.

When Jesus sent the twelve apostles on the limited commission and when he later sent seventy disciples on their own limited commission, he sent them "two and two" (Mark 6:7; Luke 10:1). In this way, they would not be alone. Even the zealous efforts of Jehovah's Witnesses and Mormons utilize the wisdom of this principle.

What may we glean from this in a practical way? First, let us be sure that we communicate our efforts with others. Let other Christians know of whom we are teaching, so that they may pray for our efforts. If we are successful in inviting them to our worship assemblies, introduce them as honored guests to our brethren, and when our brethren introduce their non-Christian friends to us, welcome them warmly! Remembering their names, if we ever see them again, speak friendly to them. It may even be the case that mutual efforts between brethren could lend one family to show hospitality in having the interested student and diligent teacher over for a meal. I would imagine that the more friendly Christians that a non-Christian meets, the better the chance of influencing him with a lifestyle of Christianity that he or she observes.

May all of us work diligently in leading people to Jesus, but may all of us also be keenly aware of opportunities wherewith we may help others lead people to Jesus!

THE LORD'S WORK

We will all recall the words of Christ when Mary and Joseph found Him in the Temple area after they had left Jerusalem without him.

"You should have known that I was about My Father's business." On another occasion He said: "I came not to do My own, but the will of Him that sent Me." Christ went about doing good (Acts 10:38). In prayer concerning His coming death, He prayed: "Not My Will, But Thine Be Done."

As I trace the Life of Christ, He was always doing good. He taught very forcefully the need of working. Especially, we need to see the desire from Him for us to go forth and do the good works that He left us to do.

Many have asked: 'What kind of work do I need to be doing in this world?' Very honestly this is a great question. God's people live in an evil world. We are confronted with evil continually. Let me share a few things that we need to be reminded and aware of.

First: Evangelism. Which means we should do all we can to carry the message of Salvation to everyone. We should be asking for our friends and neighbors to come and worship with us. We should be asking for them to study the Bible with us. We should do what we can to bring others to Christ. Start with your own family; friends; fellow-workers. Young people can encourage their school-mates to come with them to worship services. Jesus told His followers to 'Go tell the gospel story to all'.

Second: Edification. This means that we need to help the 'New Convert' grow in Christ.

There is a time when we are new-born needing the milk of the word until we can become full-grown and digest the meat of the word. Always encourage the new convert. The devil will be working over-time to get them away from Christ. Be strong and encouraging.

Third: Benevolent. We care for all mankind. We will be a friend to all--even, our enemies. Paul tells us: 'Do good to all men' (Gal.6:10).

The harvest indeed is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray the Lord of harvest, that He send forth laborers into his harvest--Matt. 9:37,38.

There is a world today filled with true sadness of soul. They are following the wrong leader. The devil is working hard today because he knows he only has a short time. He is doing all he can to destroy God's work--but, he will never do it!

Let us Fight the good fight of Faith. Let us lay hold onto eternal life---and, never let go!

SPECIAL NOTE: Remember brother Boyce, Boyce Lee, and John Paul, and their families in your prayers at the loss of our dear sister Kathy Edwards. Heaven will be sweeter by such good souls who have gone on before us.

'My Personal Responsibility'

Romans 14:10-13

"10 But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.

12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that no man put a stumblingblock or an occasion to fall in his brother's way."
